

Miko Underwood

"Paths"

24in x 48in

(acrylic & paste on canvas)

4/9/2009

...Paths...

Life can be a series of pathways leading to a central destiny.

A nerve center with many intricate blood supplies feeding one organ...
each organ has its role within the body of the universe.

What is your organ's role?

Are you taking roads that are feeding a tumor,
a cancer or are you on the road of feeding your heart,
and breathing life into something greater?

Where is your path taking you?

We often walk our paths blindly,

setting goals of what we want for ourselves

but not truly thinking of how to contribute to the whole.

When we take a moment to reflect we will discover our God-given talents, how we can apply them and become who we are born to be.

Although the road may seem unclear, trust that each curve is a gift and a guide to find your true path, take you through the process and lead you to what you're destined for.